The Capture of Warsaw.

Ten months ago, when the German armies entered Antwerp, the moral effect of this shining triumph was felt all over the world. It was a supreme achievement of which are as long as ancient frontiers. German mechanical skill, of German cannon over mighty fortifications.

It is not too much to say it is the culmination of the most gigantic strategical operation military history has known, the fought and whole provinces have been crossed by the battle fronts.

But the capture of Antwerp proved an empty success, because the Belgian army escaped. It completed the conquest of a deadlock. The true importance of the latest German feat must be measured in cess in the east, and only supreme success could justify the cost in men and material judgment on the Warsaw campaign.
